OLYMPIC GOLD MEDAL FIGURE SKATER EVAN LYSACEK TO APPEAR AT JOHN HANCOCK OBSERVATORY 'ICE' RINK

WHAT: Olympic gold medalist and world champion figure skater Evan Lysacek, of Naperville, IL, will visit the loftiest 'ice' skating rink in the world, on the 94th floor of the city's iconic John Hancock Building—1,000 feet above the Magnificent Mile®.

- Interviews with Evan Lysacek and Daniel Thomas, GM of John Hancock Observatory.
- Rink time (and skates) available for reporters.
- Photo Opp with Evan Lysacek and child skaters.
- Autograph opportunities.

WHERE: John Hancock Observatory, 94th floor, 875 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago

WHEN: 12:30–2:00 p.m., Tuesday, February 22, 2011

WHY: "Having Evan, an Olympic gold medalist and world champion, join us at the highest 'ice' skating rink in the world is truly an extraordinary opportunity and an honor," said Daniel Thomas, general manager, John Hancock Observatory. "Twelve months ago, our rink was an idea with great potential, now we've had thousands of visitors on our 'ice,' and we've got the best figure skater on the planet coming by for a visit."
